

Fall 2025 Training Opportunity for Skills System Training with Dr. Julie Brown

The Montana Developmental Disabilities Program is offering this free training to DDP Contracted Providers, Targeted Case Managers and DDP Staff.

Many people who have mental health issues and intellectual disabilities have difficulty managing their emotions effectively. Emotion regulation skill gaps can make reaching goals more difficult. When individuals and/or support providers lack emotion regulation abilities, patterns of self- and co-dysregulation can result.

The Skills System is a set of user-friendly, adaptable strategies that are designed to help individuals, their staff, and their family members manage emotions, thoughts, and behaviors. Skills help people self- and co-regulate. The Skills System is specifically designed to be used within ID supports to help build the core competencies of all involved.

MTDDP is providing Skills System resources to help support providers to:

- Teach skills to individuals with ID
- Train staff to be skills coaches
- Support agencies to implement the Skills System in the environment
